TRIAL TRIP OF THE ADRIATIC.

ful Performance of the En Working of the New "Cut Off" and Con. denser - Extraordinary Speed Attained-Easy Motion of the Ship-Resums of the Internal Arrangements-The Ship to be Opened for Public Inspection this Week, and to Start for Liverpool on Saturday, &c. The Adristic—the last and noblest work of the Collins dine of ateamships—went on an engineer's trial trip on Friday, and returned yesterday morning. The ce of the engines was perfectly satisfacory, the most unexpected speed and easiness of motion were attained, and in every way she excelled even the Aighest anticipations of her owners. Thus, like a phomix risen from the ashes, has the Adriatic outlived the calumnice which have been circulated about her, and now is tless the pioneer champion of American shipbuilding.

RESUME OF THE SHIP'S PROPORTIONS. fore proceeding to give an account of the trial trip, it may be well to refresh the public mind as to the proportions and arrangements of the ship, which have been already very fully detailed in the HERALD.

The Adristic is the largest steamship ever built in this country, and, without exception, the largest wooden vessed in the world. Her length is 354 feet; breadth of beam 50 feet; depth of hold, 33 feet 2 inches, and Custom House register 5,889 tons. The beauty of her lines is un paralleled, and may well be considered the crown ing monument of the genius of George Steers.
The keenness of her bow, with wedge-like sharpnoss extending back nearly fifty feet, and the graceful lines of the waist and stern, as she sits with swan-like ease upon the water, notwithstanding her gigantic proportions, present a specimen of symmetric grace unequalled in naval architecture. She is brig-rigged and without a bowsprit, and has hurricane, main and spar decks, below which are the berths of the waiters, and storerooms which are taken from the space allotted to freight. Further down is the hold, for the stowage of cargo. Her upper decks run the whole length of the ship, affording a fine promenade. intry, and, without exception, the largest wooden veswhole length of the ship, affording a fine promenade.

THE GRAND DINING ROOM AND CONVENIENCES FOR FIRST AND SECOND CLASS PASSINGERS.

The grand-dining room on the main deck is seventy-five feet in length and twenty-eight in width, accommodating 300 persons. The furniture and decorations are of the most gorgeous and costly style, reflected on every side by massive mirrors. The smoking room, fitted up in excellent style, and capable of accommodating sixty gentlemen, is further off on the same deck, and still further off are the storerooms of stewards and other apartments. The second class passengers dining room is forward on the same deck, and though fitted with less splendor, is excellently gotten up, and capable of accommodating forty persons. The spar deck has the grand first class saloon, contains the state rooms for first class passengers, and rivals in splendor the dining room. The paintings, mirrors and forniture are all in due proportion, and have been already fully described.

THE VENTILLATION OF THE SHIP.

have been already fully described.

THE VENTILATION OF THE SHIP.

This great desideratum in the construction of so massive a vessel has, it is believed, been attained successfully, every saloon and apartiment being amply supplied with pure air by means of innumerable little pipes and air holes extending through the ceilings, doors and mouldings, while two immense skylights act as immense lungs to the ship. The system is similar to that used in ventilating the mines of Europe, and even the engineers and fire rooms are always comfortable.

THE CULINARY DEPARTMENT.

With the perfection of the cook's gallery, pantry and itchen, the most critical must be satisfied. The array of glass and silver ware so dazzling; the immeuse refrigera-tor, the improved culinary utensils; the method of carry-ing off the odor of cooking, and the ice houses, are all perfectly adapted to their several uses.

Probably no engines ever received such world wide notice, from various causes, as those of the Adriatic. These are two of the largest oscillating engines ever built, each of one hundred inch cylinder and twoive feet stroke—a nominal horse power of afteen hundred and an actual chorse power of three thousand.

The motive power is generated by eight tubular boilers, capable of a pressure of from twenty to thirty pounds to the square inch. She is supplied with patent condensors, the cold water running through 12,000 circulating copper pipes, condensing the steam in its course, saving, as it is said, nearly $75,000 per annum in fuel and wear and tear when the ship is running. The piston rods are fifteen inches in offsmeter, and the shaft twenty inches in diameter, of solid wrought iron. The furnaces require from fifty to sixty firemen and coal passers, and an less than tax engineers will be required to attend the engines. The wheels are each forty feet in diameter and twelve feet face, and have a dip of from eight to nine feet. The condensers are as comparatively new patent. Altogether the ponderous massiveness of the machinery strikes the beholder with awe and an impiacable faith in its strength.

The ENUISER'S THAL THIP.

With but a few guests, consisting of Mr. Collins and the other owners, a number of gentlemen engaged in the construction of the ship, and several gentlemen of the navy, deputed to try the new "Tripod" for taking observations, the Adriatic started from her dock on Friday on an engineer's trial trip. The representatives of the press were not invited, and to this, if to anything, must be ascribed the meagree details of the ship's working. Various opinions have been expressed with regard to this omission—some averring that there was no confluence in success, while others attributed it to modesty. Certainly it was a false idea that excluded from the scene of one of America's greatest triumphs the historians of, and contributors to her greatness.

The speed was lowly increased until with a moderate head she made at least fifteen miles an hour. On Friday she steamed outside about fifty miles, and up Long Island ceast, returning off Sandy Hook at night. On Saturday she went out a little further to sea, and on Sunday she steamed up the coast, around Block Island, returning at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, having sailed altogether 250 miles in a perfectly satisfactory manner. The oscillating cylinders worked beautifully, without any perceptible jar, either of sound or metion. As they were viewed from the hur ricane deck, the noise was represented like a rush of wind. ricane deck, the noise was represented like a rush of wind, so steady and uniform did they work. so steady and uniform did they work. There was some little trouble about the much calaminated cut-off and side valves, which can, however, be remedied in a short time. It will be recollected that a senguine patentee of a cut-off was allowed to tinker at the ship for a long while, and finally his entire work was thrown aside, and Mr. Allen substituted his own cut-off and valve connections. There was some little trouble about one of the valves slamming, and the bottom of the rod that plunges into the dash pot was found to strike the water too horizontally; but the chief engineer says that this defect can be remedied in a very short time, and that in every other respect the engines worked beautifully. The improved condensers worked admirably, creating the greatest vacuum that has ever been attained—some 25 or 37 inches. There was no lock, and the water that was taken out when she started was found to be quite fresh.

There was no account of the log being the only guide available, but the vessel ran about sixteen miles an hour agamst head wind. The greatest speed was attained from a point measured at Sandy Hook to a given point off Governor's Island, when it was ascertained that according to the observations of the tripol of Capt. Cavendey the had made eighteen musical miles and therety one statute miles in one hour and four minutes, and then she did not employ more than about two thirds of her available power. So fast was her speed that she easily passed the Staten Island boats and tugs which vainly endeavored to keep up with her, and indeed her time equalled that of our fastest North River boats, yet there was comparatively little swell, no throwing up of the water from her sides, showing the faultlessness of her lines, while the absence of any perceptible jar told plainly the securacy of her machinery. It is said that her jarring at this speed was not greater than at 10 miles an hour. At different times during the voyage she made from 12 to 15 miles an hour, carrying from 10 to 16 pounds of steam, and cutting of

The naval gentlemen on board expressed themselves perfectly satisfied with Captain Cavendey's "tripod" for taking observations. The observations were worked out, and found correct, and the principle is believed to be obspable of as much, if not more, accuracy and greater expediency than the old sextant.

THE CALCIUM HOUT:

Professor Grant's calcium light has been adopted for the Adriatic, it being the first time it has ever been applied to any steamship. The old objection of the difficulty of seeing through the illuminated atmosphere or fog is obviated by placing the light on the foremast, some distance above the deek, by means of which any object can be seen ten miles ahead. The advantage of this light is that with the lime exclusively furnished by Professor Grant, the light may be burned by an mexperienced person for twenty-four hours at a time. There is no doubt that this light will be of much service a distinguishing objects ahead in the dark or a fog.

The visual to us exclusively our hours at a time. There are the decided in the dark or a fog.

The visual to us exclusive to the ventre.

The Adriatic is now lying at the dock foot of Canal street, and is being thoroughly washed and cleansed. In a few days she will carry with her the good will of every patriotic American citizen.

Police Intelligence. PROBABLY FATAL SHOOTING AFFRAY IN CANAL STREET—A WOMAN IN THE CASE—JEALOUSY TRE CAUSE. About three o'clock yesterday morning a shooting affray occurred in the drinking and syster saloon of John Johnson No. 388 Canal street, which will probably involve the life o a respectable young man named Henry Hamilton. It ap pears, as far as we have been able to ascertain, that about three o'clock Hamiton entered the saloon in question in company with a girl named Louisa Eber, and called fo refreshments. They were shown into a private box, where they were engaged in eating their supper when a fellow named John Moroney suddenly interrupted them fellow named John Moroney auddenly interrupted them by exclaiming to the girl, "I suppose you thought you could get away from me." Moroney followed up this remark by heaping insulting assi abusive epithets upon the head of the girl, when Hamilton rose to protect her, at the same time saying to the intruder, "You need not say anything to her." Hard words then passed between the two men whon Hamilton closed the door of the saloon in tace of his adversary. This only served to increase the flame, for Moroney, with an eath, publed it open again, and drawing a single barreled pistol from his pocket, discharged its contents at the head of Hamilton. The aim was a deadily one, for the charge took affect in the forehead and temple of the injured man, immediately prostrating him to the floor. Moroney hastily left the saloon, and endeavored to effect his escape by flight, but he was captured by officers Nesbit and Kidney, of the Fifth ward police, and after a stout resistance he was locked up it the station house.

The wounded man was promptly attended by Dr. Kill.

The wounded man was promptly attended by Dr. Kilbourne, when upon an examination it was found that two balls had lodged in the brain. One of them entered the forchead just above the left eye, while the other entered the forchead just above the left eye, while the other entered the temple on the same side. At the suggestion of the physician Hamilton was conveyed to the New York hospital, where the house surgeon pronounced the case a hopeless one. The wounds were probed, but the balls could not be found. In the opinion of the doctors they are lodged in the substance of the brain, in which event there is no hope for the unfortunate man, as the wounds must inevitably prove mortal.

Yesterday Moroney was conveyed to the Tombs, when an examination was held before Justice Osborn. George Higgins, of No. 3 Mulligan place, Tenth street, deposed that he saw the prisoner fire the pistol at Hamilton, and then retreat from the saloon. Louisa Eber, the companion of the wounded man, who can testify to the truth of all the facts, was also destained as a witness. It appears from her statements to the police, that she is an acquaintance of the prisoner, and had been with him about an hour previous to the time when Hamilton was unfortunate enough to meet her. Moroney, on hearing that she had accompanied Hamilton to the cyster saloon in Canal street, followed her thither, when the affray which we have already detailed took place.

Moroney is a rowdy looking fellow, and is well known to the police. He was committed to the Tombs to await the result of the wounded man's injuries.

Hamilton is a clerk in a broker's office in Wall street, and lives with his parents at 126 Twenty-afth street. He is but 22 years of age.

The Coroner was notified to hold an ante-mortem examination in the case of the wounded man, but up to the hour of closing the Coroner's office the case had not been attended to Last evening Hamilton was unconscious. He remained in that state up to a late hour.

AN EXCITING CHASE AFTER A PRISONER. Yesterday afternoon, about two o'clock, Jesse C. Allen, a notorious offender, attempted to escape from Michael Connolly, one of the deputy keepers of the Penitentiary, as the latter was conveying him from the Court of General Sessions to Blackwell's Island. Allen, it appears, had been brought down from the Penitentiary and tried in the Court of General Sessions for grand larceny. He was convicted and sentenced to four years' confinement in the State prison, but was remanded to the Penitentiary to serve out the remainder of his term. As the deputy keeper, with his prisoner, was standing at the corner of Pearl and Centre streets, waiting for one of the Fourth avonue cars, the latter suddenly started up Pearl street towards Broadway, and for a time gained on the keeper, who was in pursuit. Allen managed to run exceedingly, well considering the presence of a pair of handcuffs, and no doubt would have outstripped the keeper had be not been inconvenienced by his iron bracelets. The chase was continued up Broadway as far as Leonard street, where the fugitive thought to clude the grasp of the keeper by dodging up stairs into the building No. 345 Broadway. The pursuer, however, was close behind the luglitive, and was not to be so easily bamboozied. Allen ran through the building as though he was well acquainted with the premises, and finally managed to escape by a rear stairway into Leonard street. At this juncture the chase became peculiarly exciting. A couple of thieves got between the keeper and the fugitive, and tried to foil the intentions of the officer Connolly, fearing that he was about to lose his prisonerr, drew out his revolver and fired a shot over the head of the fugitive, who was then about twenty feet in advance, for the purpose of bringing him to a stand still. But the ruse failed; the fugitive still continued the even tenor of his way, regardless of the danger to which he was exposing himself. But Connolly was determined he would not let Allen escape, and i nereased his speed to such a height that befor Yesterday afternoon, about two o'clock, Jesse C. Allen

HAULING OLD CUSTOMERS OVER THE COALS. Some days ago officers King, McCord, Robb and Suther Some days ago officers king, McCrd, Robb and Sutheriand, of the Deputy Superintendent's office, received information that in a certain house in Houston street, near Ludlow, there lived a gang of thieves and burglars, who had secreted there a large quantity of stolen goods. The police laid their plans for a descent upon the premises, and accordingly, at noon yesterday, it was determined to storm the stronghold of the thieves. On approaching the den, two of the occupants, named Daniel Thompson and James Donnelly, were met coming out of the hall door. They were quietly arrested and conveyed to the Deputy's office in Broome street by two of the officers, while the others stood upon the sidewalk awaiting their return. In a few moments afterwards two fellows, well known to the police, named Alexander Johnson, alids Cushing, alias Simelton, and John Trainor, made Their appearance, and were about entering the house, when they were also taken into custody. The prisoners, on being taken to the deputy's office, were searched, when upon the person of Johnson was found four pieces of satin, with an inverted B and a double cross and a large O, with a dot in the centre. The prisoner is an old and experienced confidence man. A short time ago he went into a fancy goods house in William street, and while pretending to make some extensive purchases, he managed to conceal and carry off a package of cycglasses and some other articles of value. He entered a spiritual circle not long ago and completely bamboazled the entire company, male and female, by getting a loan of their jewelry for a short time, and innocently forgetting to return the property to its owners. Thompson and Trainor are charged with having burglariously outered a store in John street and stealing about $1,500 worth of silks therefrom. The prisoners were all locked up for examination. land, of the Deputy Superintendent's office, received i HOW A RESIDENT AT COMMUNIPAW WAS TREATED IN

CHATHAM STREET.

Mr. Timothy Hannegan, a resident of that ancient and far famed village, Communipaw, N. J., was treated in far-famed village. Communipaw, N. J., was treated in rather an ungentiemanly manner, in Chatham street, yesterday morning, by a couple of young scamps, who insisted on making the countryman stand oyster suppers when he was decidedly opposed to anything of the sort. Mr. H. was requested to pay for the bivalves each by the young-sters, when refusing to do so he was knocked down and robbed of $6.25, all the money he had upon his person. The Sixth ward police being attracted to the scene of the difficulty, came up just in time to arrest the assailants, who were immediately conveyed to the station house and there locked upfor the remainder of the night. Yesterday the prisoners were brought before Justice Osborne, at the Lower Police Court, where they were committed, each in default of $2,000 bad.

On Sunday evening three young men entered the grocery and iquor store of John Anfenauger, No. 779 Green cery and liquor store of John Anfenauger, No. 779 Green-wich street, and called for some liquor. They were supplied with the required drinkables, when a dispute arose as to the payment for the same. The men quarreled with one another and finally the matter came to blows. At this moment the proprietor of the establishment stepped out from behind the bar and attempted to separate the helligeretts when he was stabbed in the side with dirk knife alleged to have been in the hands of one of the gang named William Lee. The accused was soon afterwards arrested by Sergeant Bennett and officer Van Dusen, of the Ninth ward police, and on being conveyed before Justice Davison at the Jefferson Market Police Court he was held to hait in the sum of $2,000 to answer the charge of felonious assault and battery. Anfenanger's wound is not a very dangerous one.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

In your paper of Monday, the 16th inst., in an article referring to the conduct of the poor of the Fourteenth ward reference was made to a gang of rowdies who lay aroun No. 9 engine company's house, saying that they neve worked, and that they have threatened to have flour ithey have to take it by force, and that the police were watching them. I beg to say that I never knew of the rowdies referred to; and that the members of Engine Co. No. 9 are, so far as I know, peaceably disposed persons and appear to be men of industrious habits and of goo character; and I would state further, that I have no heard of any threats from that quarter to disturb the public peace.

MONEY MARKET.

MONDAY, Nov. 16-6 P. M.

The stock market appears to daily gain in strength and activity. The bulls have matters and things at the Stock Exchange entirely their own way, and we should not be surprised if they retained their position for a time longer in spite of the efforts and lamentations of the bears. There are evidently large amounts of money within the control of buyers, and the speculative feeling appears to be extending over the street. The operations to-day were upon a very extensive scale, and the great bulk of the transactions were for cash. At the first board Tennessee 6's advanced 31 per cent; North Carolina 6's, 1; Illinois Central bonds, 1; Canton Company, 1; Pennsylvania Coal Company, 1: Cumberland Company, 24; Pacific Steamship Company, 4; New York Central Railroad, 12; Erie, 12; Harlem Railroad, 14; Hudson River, 1; Reading, 1; Galena and Chicago, 2; Michigan Southern, old, 11; do., preferred, 21; Panama, 11; Illinois Central Railroad, 14; Cleveland and Toledo, 14; Chicago and Rock Island, 14; Milwaukie and Mississippi, 33; La Crosse and Milwaukie, 23; C. B. and Quincy, 2. Virginia 6's declined 4 per cent; Missouri 6's, 2; Delaware and Hudson, 2; Cleveland and Pittsburg, 1. In several of the leading fancy stocks the sales sum up thousands of shares. With all this there is no outside demand for stocks. The bull brokers of the Stock Exchange are the only buyers, and it appears to us that at the rate of purchase reported for some days past, it will not be long before they get pretty well filled up. The banks are doubtless lending money freely on the hypothecation of railroad stocks, and this helps along the inflation. It is utterly out of the question to prevent these moneyed institutions from involving themselves in the stock movements of the day. So long as they have money to lend and they cannot get hold of enough of the right kind of paper so long will they employ their idle capita in stock securities. They seldom or never appear in the market as buyers or sellers, but take a much safer course, that of lending with proper margins at full rates of interest, on call. There cannot very well be any loss in this kind of business, and the only objection that can be advanced to it is simply the fact that it furnishes artificial values and encourages ion. The present movement in the stock market can be attributed almost entirely to the fa cilities afforded by the banks, and we do not see that they are likely to be withdrawn at present. As prices advance the margin in favor of the party loaning on them increases, and the safety of the operator guaranteed. So far as the banks are concerned they can have no fears, and they are therefore likely to aid and comfort speculators in stocks for a rise to the full extent of their available and unersployed means. While the banks are in this way, making a good thing out of the inflation and activity, the brokers involving themselves directly in the movement are not so comfortably situated. They must stand in the gap, take all the chances in the end, and come out losers. This is invariably the result, and we do not believe this will be an exception. It must be admitted that the banks and brokers make a pretty strong party, and so long as they hold together, the few bears of the street may as well look on quietly and patiently, and see th game played out by their opponents. We should not be surprised to see five and ten per cent piled up in many instances upon present figures, or to see this activity continued for weeks. There is very little, higher points. At the second board higher prices ruled and the market closed very buoyant. Missouri 6's advanced 13 per cent from the lowest prices ruling at the first board; Tennessee 6's, $; North Carolina 6's, $; Hud-son River Railroad, 1; Panama, 1; Reading, 1; Michigan Southern, old, 1; Galena and Chicago, 1; Cleve-land and Toledo, ; Chicago and Rock Island, ;; Milwaukie and Mississippi, 14: La Crosse and Milwaukie, 4. After the board La Crosse sold at 14 per cent. The new board of management of this company is very well spoken of by the Milwaukie papers, and the road is said to be well managed. The land grant to the extent of upwards of three hundred thousand acres has been secured, and the general government have adopted the company's surveys and locations. The upward movement in the market generally does not diminish in force and vigor in the least, and it would be well enough for the small remnants of the bear party to make up their minds for a further inflation. The banks and the bulls have the helm, and the ship of speculation must go as they direct. The most favorable feature about this inflation that occurs to us, is the fact that the current high prices enable many small holders to re alize at rates they little dreamed of a few weeks since. The bulls certainly deserve much credit for giving these parties such a grand opportunity to re-

if any, opposition to the inflation, and it will be the fault of the wirepuliers themselves if the speculation does not obtain greater force and prices much

The position of financial affairs on the other side of the water is a matter to which an artificial coloring has been given by the immediate effect of the fact that our banks had suspended specie payments. It was the general impression here that more disasters would at once follow the announcement in London, and the absence of that effect, except to a moderate extent, has created an impression on this side of the Atlantic that no more apprehension need be enterained, and that our fears were groundless. We wish, with all our heart, that such results were even among the probabilities, but we cannot even give that latitude to our anticipations. We look for future arrivals from Europe with much anxiety, and drawers of exchange look for them with fear and trembling. The position of several of our Anglo-American banking bouses is such that any steamer may bring advices that would cause an immediate suspension. The losses already realized by these exchange drawers, in the failure of so many of our large jobbing and importing firms, have been very beavy, and the resources of the Anglo-American banking houses referred to have been completely absorbed. Previous to the recent collapse in credits most of the purchases of foreign exchange for remittances in payment of dry goods were made on time, and the security given was principally promissory notes. The sudden appearance of the panic and the rapid progress of the revulsion cut off at once the negotiability of these bills receivable, thereby throwing the exchange drawers entirely upon their own capital and resources. When they had the means they remitted specie and other bills, to place their principals in London in a position to pay the bills drawn at maturity, and when they had not the means, they have been obliged to depend upon the capital and credit of the acceptor on the other side. It is in cases where no remittances for protection have been made that holders of bills of exchange entertain the most fears. The shipments of specie made from this port to Europe since the revulsion commenced have been principally for the purpose of providing for the payment of exchange previously drawn at maturity. The houses making these shipments show great strength and give confidence to the holders of their bills; but unfortunately there is a class of houses here, Anglo-American bankers as they are called, who draw entirely upon credit and depend upon future remittances to protect their bills. Any financial de rangement interrupting such remittances is calcula-ted to result disastrously to such houses. This kind of exchange business is a desperate species of kiting, which sooner or later inevitably ends in suspension. The next news from Europe will, without doubt, be of a totally different complexion from the last. The earnings of the Eric Railroad for the month

The earnings of the Chicago, St. Paul and Fond du Lac Railroad in October, 1857, amounted to $51. 105 75. The failure of G. T. Lewis, of Cincinnati, reported a few days since, is not G. F. Lewis, of that city. This must appear clear enough to any one of even ordinary comprehension. The Manhattan Fire Insurance Company has declared a semi-annual dividend of ten per cent, payable on the 1st of December.

The earnings of the Cleveland and Toledo Railroad for the first week of November, 1857, were. $21,735 Same time, 1856. 23,633

The bank returns for the week ending Nov. 14, ompared with these for the week previous, exhibit following variations in the aggregates of the of things. The banks are literally running over with bullion and coin. Our most extravagant estimates have been exceeded, and the increase is still going on. The St. Louis is in with $1,200,000 from California; the Ariel will be here in a day or two with $400,000. Here is an aggregate of $1,600,000 that will go into the banks this week. The deposits show a large addition to the discounting basis, and yet the banks show a contraction in loans. It is now estimated that the banks can pay on demand fifty per cent of their liabilities in cash. This shows a strength unprecedented in the history of banking in this city. In the face of such facts, any further postponement of a resumption is the height of folly. It is our impression that before the close of the present week the banks of this city will have virtually resumed specie payments. The New Orleans bank statement for the week

The Picagune says:—

The public were prepared for a strong showing, but they did not anticipate quite as favorable an exhibit as these figures indicate. The banks have now nearly a milion of coin more than on the Saturday preceding the run, while their direct liabilities have been largely reduced. The total gain in specie from the lowest point is nearly two millions and a half. After I o'clock the averages became generally known, and the effect was to improve the existing good feeling in financial circles.
